HOLC Fraud Charge Data Given to Jury

Women Say Peddicord Accepted Money to Solicit Loans.

Court Orders Officials Tried for Larceny in CWA Racket.

District grand jury yesterday was presented with evidence against Thomas Edgar Peddicord, of 1441 South Carolina avenue southeast, who is accused of accepting money for soliciting loans from the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

Further developments in graft charges arising out of another recovery program agency occurred as Judge Gus A. Schuldt in the Federal section of Police Court ordered Thomas E. Archer and Joe George McAlwee, local CWA supervisors, held for trial on February 6 on charges of larceny by trick.

Archer and McAlwee are accused by several CWA workers of having accepted bribes to further the pay ambitions of the complainants.

Peddicord was arrested early yesterday, after two women had complained to Assistant United States Attorney Charles Murray that he had accepted fees from them in return for acting as their agent before the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

Shortly after the grand jury had studied evidence presented to them in connection with Peddicord's activities, the accused man was arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, who ordered him held in $1,000 bond, pending a hearing next Friday. The grand jury will not make its findings known until next week.

Charged With Taking Fees.

Peddicord, according to Detective Sergeant Earl P. Hartmann, is accused of accepting $28 from Mary Chandler, on June 13, 3131 Eleventh street northwest, for soliciting from the Home Loan Corporation a loan on her property.

Another complaint involved the payment of $10 an alleged fee of $20 to solicit a loan for Sadie Page, 1626 Swann street northwest.

The complaint against Peddicord is that he violated Section 8E of the home owners' loan act, which prohibits acceptance of fees for soliciting loans for others from the corporation. His attorney indicated that Peddicord rendered other services to the two complainants and that he received the money for those services.

F. Joseph Donaghue, attorney for Archer, argued that the unusual nature of the case required more time for preparation. Frank Fuller, attorney for McAlwee, asked an immediate and a separate trial, but this was denied. Schuldt then set the February 6 hearing.

Archer Still In Jail.

Archer is in jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. McAlwee is out on $5,500 bond. Both men are charged with offering to increase the rating of men under their supervision engaged in the District rent survey, in return for a remuneration.

John Roche, Thomas Donnelly and Jack Countryman, three of the rent workers, told police they had paid $5 to both men, while William Manuel, another employe, said he gave each of the supervisors $2. Roche and Manuel say they made the payments on January 20. Donnelly made his payment on January 22, he said, and Countryman the next day.

Spain Holds American Quartet Another Week

Madrid, Jan. 26 (AP).—Four Americans, held in jail at Palma, Mallorca, for assaulting a civil guard, must remain imprisoned there until next week at least because an odd technicality prevented the government from issuing a pardon today.

The writ of pardon was practically ready when the ministry of justice discovered that it did not have the prisoner's written request for the pardon which the law requires.

Larger Income Revenue Asked In Peery's Bill

Lower Exemptions, High Merchants' Fees, Mark School Aid Plan.

By Doug Warrenfels.

Richmond, Jan. 26.—New taxes intended to produce additional school funds of $1,000,000 annually were proposed by a bill introduced in the Assembly today.

The measure was advanced by Senator A. P. Staples, Roanoke, at the insistence of Gov. Peery after Chairman W. A. Garrett, of the Senate Finance Committee, refused to sponsor the program. Recognized opposition was so great that a compromise seems probable.

Indications were that the Garrett faction would seek diversion of highway or other funds to meet the governor's school demands without imposition of new taxes.

Meanwhile, Delegate Wilbur C. Hall, Leesburg, assured prompt action on his proposal for State liquor dispensaries by having the House agree to consider control legislation Tuesday as a special order of business.

Staples told reporters the Peery plan would relieve real estate owners of a substantial portion of their tax burden. He said annual revenue would be increased by approximately $1,161,000, and that funds would be provided to care for decreased income from real estate taxes due to lowered assessments.

An outstanding provision would affect about 20,000 by narrowing income tax exemptions from $2,800 to $2,000 a year for married persons and from $1,250 to $1,000 a year for single persons. Deductions for dependents would be cut from $400 to $200 each.

Inheritance tax exemptions would be slashed 50 per cent; merchants' licenses would be increased about $300,000 a year, depending on the volume of business; receipts of buses operated within city limits would be taxed 3 per cent; telephone companies would be required to pay a gross receipts tax; gas pipe lines would be taxed $120 a mile; receipts of power, water, light and heat companies would be taxed at 3 per cent and railroads would be required to pay a rolling stock tax of $2.50 per $100.

The Senate passed a bill by Senator John W. Rust, Fairfax, to reduce the penalty for trespass by cattle from $1 a head to $1 for each trespass regardless of the number of stock involved. The measure, remaining to be acted on by the House, would permit suits for actual damage resulting from intrusions by cattle.

Stalker Bill Asks Gravelly Point Airport

Expense Would Be Split by D. C. and Federal Governments.

While the House Military Affairs Committee continued its deliberation on the McSwain bill to establish a District airport at Washington-Hoover Field, Representative Stalker (Republican), New York, yesterday reintroduced his measure to build an airport at Gravelly Point, jointly financed by the District and Federal governments.

The Stalker bill would authorize the two governments to acquire and reclaim Gravelly Point for establishment of a modern municipal airport open to public aircraft.

An appropriation of $750,000 would be taken equally from District revenues and Treasury funds each year to apply on the site purchase price and to operate the flying field.

The bill provides that if land is purchased in Virginia, the titles must be approved by the Attorney General because of the controversy existing as to the District of Columbia-Virginia boundary.

The Secretary of War would have control of the airport until some other agency is provided.

The House Military Affairs Committee is now considering a half dozen suggested sites for a District airport, although the McSwain bill specifies the Washington-Hoover Airport and provides for the closing of Military road.

Reduced CWA Hours Intensify Work of Relief

Thousands Seek to Reopen Old Cases in Fear of Income Cuts.

The cutting of hours for Civil Works Administration workers here will intensify problems of the Emergency Relief Bureau, Dr. LeRoy A. Halbert, director, asserted yesterday, pointing out that during the last 18 months 43,000 Washingtonians had applied to his organization for aid.

Thousands of persons, fearing reductions in their incomes, already have come to the relief office to see if their cases can not be reopened for supplementary relief, Halbert said. The CWA projects, he added, were a definite aid not only for families that thus found employment, but for over-taxed relief agencies when it became immediately evident that 11,878 dependents might be transferred to CWA work during November and December.

"Notwithstanding this relief from our heretofore growing burden," Dr. Halbert declared, "there were 2,272 new applications for aid in December, and 2,310 applications during the first 15 days of Januray. On January 15, there wree 13,754 families as open cases on the relief rolls."

Stressing the demands upon his organization, Dr. Halbert asserted yesterday that his office force has been kept at a minimum in order that the appropriation might go just as far as possible.

Statistically, he stated, there are 57 field workers, five assistant supervisors and a variable number of office workers on the administrative roll. There are 305 CWA assistants picked from relief workers themselves, used in helping the needy.

Waterway Power Project Upheld

President Sends More Data on Plan to Senate.

A report upholding the economic advisability of the St. Lawrence power development, prepared by the Federal Power Commission and the Power Authority of New York, was sent to the Senate yesterday by President Roosevelt.

Thus, he added more data to the exhaustive reports he has sent the upper house in support of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty, which is encountering strong opposition.

"Three Redheads" Sentenced.

Following their plea of guilty to two charges of robbery, Calvin, Robert and Orville O'Neal, known to police as the "Three Redheads," yesterday were given indeterminate sentence of from 3 to 6 years in jail.

Scoring highest in a Nation-wide contest, a Washington youth, John M. Baer, jr., son of former Representative and Mrs. John M. Baer, of 1617 Buchanan street northwest, placed first among 500 contestants in the first preliminary of the 1934 National Paris Prize Architectural Competition, it was announced last night.

Baer, a student in Catholic University's Department of Architecture, was one of ten students submitting winning sketches.

A sophomore, Baer is a graduate of Devitt Preparatory School. He expects to be graduated from Catholic University in 1936. His farther formerly represented North Dakota in the House.

To compete for the final prize, which is a year's study in the art schools of Europe, Baer must be among eight chosen in a semifinal contest. These eight are eligible for the finals.

The preliminary problem which Baer won was a design for "A Monumental Beacon and Lighthouse."

Prince Georges Warns District Beer Dealers

Tells Wholesalers That Law Forbids Sales to Retailers.

A warning to Washington wholesale beer dealers to stay out of Prince Georges County, Md., was issued at a special meeting of the county liquor commissioners yesterday at Upper Marlboro.

The warning came in the form of notices to all holders of county liquor and beer licenses that they were violating the law in buying from Washington dealers.

"And if we catch any of these dealers operating in the county," said A. Gwynne Bowie, attorney for the liquor commissioners, "we will see they are prosecuted."

Bowie pointed out they were violating the statutes prohibiting the interstate transportation of alcoholic beverages from wholesaler to retailer.

"The retailers," he continued, "are subject to prosecution on the charge of transportation and the charge of having it on their premises. If any are caught their licenses will be revoked, in addition to the prosecution.

"I feel, however, that many are not aware they are violating the law. Therefore, we are sending the warnings. Also, I think the violations pertain to beer exclusively."

The meeting was called after the commissioners had received numerous complaints of unfair competition. To sell alcoholic beverages, wholesale, a State license of $1,000 is required. Liquor or beer can not be transported between States except from wholesaler to wholesaler.

Board Urges U. S. Construct Chain Bridge

Trade Body Proposes Span for Memorial to Wilson.

Federal construction of a new Chain Bridge as a memorial to Woodrow Wilson was urged by the streets and avenues committee of the Washington Board of Trade in resolutions yesterday.

The proposal was made by Dr. Llewelyn Jordan. George Shinn, chairman of the committee, urged all members to attend a hearing of the House District Committee when appropriations for surveys of the Chain Bridge and the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge will be discussed.

Any increase in the gasoline tax was opposed in another resolution. All proceeds from the gas tax, it was recommended, should be used for surveys of new street, road and bridge projects.

Studies of approaches to the Connecticut Avenue and Calvert Street Bridges, with a view to improving intersectional traffic, was recommended.

A report on the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge was given by Adalbert W. Lee, while Harry J. Saunders reported on the Maryland Avenue Bridge, and Oliver Metzerott on other projects leading into Maryland.

Citizens Ask A New Deal In Benning

House Group Is Urged to Correct Railroad Crossing Menace.

Body Also Complains Against Operation of Dump.

Washington's forgotten community yesterday asked a new deal from the House District Committee.

In a letter addressed to Chairman Norton the Benning Citizens Association asked that "more attention be paid by the District committee to deplorable conditions existing in this section."

"We have a condition in this community which can not be equaled elsewhere in America in this day and age," the letter continued.

Many Risk Lives.

Isolated from street cars by two railroad tracks and without a "legal crossin," the residents of Benning are compelled to "walk a half or three-quarters of a mile in order to reach their street cars by a safe or legal way," the letter said.

Many risk their lives by cutting across the railroad tracks, the letter stated, and as a result a high school girl and several adults have been killed. School pupils daily take risks by crossing the tracks.

The District engineer department two years ago built an underpass at Twenty-fourth street and Benning road, although it was "not needed and is never used;" yet the Commissioners have consistently turned a deaf ear to appeals for an underpass in a more suitable location, the House committee was told.

Complain About Dump.

Unable to get all the complaints in one letter, the association addressed a second letter protesting specifically against operation of the Benning municipal dump, which was started after Congress compelled the closing of the Southeast incinerator.

"Odors that emanate from this are of a most obnoxious nature," the letter states, "and the smoke lays a barrage of about a quarter of a mile at times, depending on atmospheric conditions. We are compelled to keep all windows closed, winter and summer."

The citizens' organization appealed to the committee to investigate and correct both matters.

Treasury Acts For Full Rein In Park Bank

Asks Court to Release Receiver From Suit by Depositors.

Favorable Verdict Would Allow U. S. to Sue for Shortage.

Treasury Department officials yesterday took the offensive in litigation started by the depositors committee of the Park Savings Bank in an attempt to salvage part of the bank's debit balance of approximately $2,500,000.

The depositors want the District Supreme Court to order the RFC to return securities pledged by the bank for a $700,000 loan. The loan was negotiated just prior to the closing.

In addition, they are asking the court declare directors and stockholders liable for the loss on the theory that as the bank's charter expired in 1929, it was thereafter managed as a "copartnership," and as such the officers should have terminated its business.

Receiver Protests Action.

George B. Springston and J. Bruce Kremer, attorneys representing John F. Moran, receiver, yesterday asked Justice Jesse C. Adkins to either dismiss the suit, insofar as it relates to the receiver, or at least to strike from it those portions relating to the receiver.

Their grounds were that the receiver was duly appointed by the Comptroller of the Currency and that "he had the exclusive right to bring and maintain all actions on behalf of the bank, its debtors, creditors and stockholders, if any such action exists, including specifically all of the actions alleged in plaintiff's bill of complaint."

Among the possible causes of action that might be instituted by the receiver on behalf of the bank were those relating to the liability of the directors as copartners, doing a banking business in the District of Columbia and trading under the firm, name, style, of Park Savings Bank.

Decision Expected Today.

"Any actions to enforce the liability of the directors of the Park Savings Bank for any and all illegal declarations of dividends in said bank; any action to enforce the common laws and statutory liabilities of the directors of the Park Savings Bank for negligence if any existed, in administering the affairs of the bank, and as liquidating trustees, and any action against the RFC for the return of securities of the Park Savings Bank pledged to the RFC to secure a loan by the corporation to the bank."

If the Treasury move is adopted by Justice Adkins, the depositors committee will be shorn of the powers necessary to maintain their suit. The Treasury would then be empowered to sue on behalf of the depositors to establish liability for the shortage.

Justice Adkins indicated he would render his verdict today.

Federal officers and headquarters detectives yesterday continued an undercover drive against narcotic peddlers in Washington. Earlier in the week nine persons were arrested.

As the result of investigation of the suspects, police announced that one of the arrested persons, Mrs. Lorraine Horner, gave her home as 3915 Military road northwest, which, they said, was the wrong address.

Good morning! As we write this, it looks very much as though this will be the last week of our January event. If it does continue, assortments will have become depleted. Certainly, prices will not go lower. Play safe and buy clothing, furnishings and a new hat today.

N. Y. Grasps Wrestling Reins

Attempt Made to End Troupes and Cliques in New Code.

Salaries Are Attacked; Power of Referees Is Increased.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP).—The New York State Athletic Commission rewrote its rules governing wrestling today as a result of a recent expose of alleged faked matches.

The new code, patterned after its stringent boxing rules, attempts to break up cliques and troupes in the wrestling business, syndicated matching, and payment of salaries instead of purses to wrestlers, while still maintaining that matches in this State must be labeled "exhibitions" rather than "contests."

Jim Browning, recognized here as heavyweight champion, retains his status, and there is a provision in the new rules that "special permission" may be given by the commission to label any bout a "bout" or "contest."

Curfew Hour Rule.

The 11 p. m. closing regulation, hitherto the automatic end of an evening's entertainment, has also been modified, by permission of the inspectors assigned to all shows. Bouts may continue beyond the previous curfew hour.

"We have to take this matter of wrestling very seriously," Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission, explained, "because the State law governing both boxing and wrestling lays down definite regulations. We have the power to classify wrestling as an exhibition. We thus avoid the impossible task of trying to determine how much of it is genuine and how much is otherwise. But we can not avoid the responsibility of regulation put upon us by the State law."

Before the commission recently, Jack Pfeffer, a wrestling promoter, charged that for years heavyweight wrestlers talked their bouts over before they put them on and that champions were made and unmade at will, according to their box-office popularity. All the leading promoters and wrestlers were summoned to the commission during the inquiry that followed and all denied Pfeffer's charges.

The commission's final decision said that since wrestling here was on an exhibition basis the question of honesty of effort was not an issue. Revision of the rules, however, was decided upon as the best means of meeting the situation.

Must Wear Shoes.

Under the new rules, one-fall matches continue and wrestlers who commit fouls may have their licenses revoked. The power of referees is increased and fouls are considered "scratching, striking, gouging, butting or strangle holds" as well as deliberately throwing a man from the ring. Joe Savoldi's pet offensive weapon, the drop kick, is especially barred. All wrestlers must wear shoes.

Payment of wrestlers must be made by check, books must be kept by all promoters, and must be open to scrutiny of the commission at all times, discrimination against any particular wrestler by any promoter is forbidden, and promoters or matchmakers can not act as managers in their spare time.

Physical examinations will be stricter under the new rules. The influence of the NRA appears in the final line of the new code.

"Wrestlers," it says, "shall be compensated a minimum of $10 per exhibition."

Perry in Finals With Crawford

Has Narrow Escape, But Overcomes McGrath at Sydney.

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 26 (AP).—Fred Perry, England's Davis Cup star and United States singles champion, today narrowly escaped elimination from the Australian lawn tennis championships as young Vivian McGrath carried him to five sets in the semifinals before bowing.

Perry finally triumphed, 2—6, 8—7, 6—4, 6—4, 6—1, and will meet Jack Crawford, defending Australian title holder, in the final. Crawford won his final brackets with a 6—4, 6—2, 6—2 victory over his Davis Cup teammate, Adrian Quist.

The Perry-Crawford meeting will duplicate the final of the United States championships where the Englishman and the Australian fought it out with Perry the winner. The defeat kept Crawford from a sweep of the four main tennis titles—Australia, France, Wimbledon and the United States.

Perry and his English teammate, G. P. Hughes, won the doubles final, defeating Quist and Don Turnbull in another five-set struggle, 6—8, 6—3, 6—4, 3—6, 6—3.

Augusta Cadets Win.

Augusta Military Academy, Va., Jan. 26 (Spl.).—With the score tied and two minutes to go, Valentine Perry and Robinson quickly slipped in baskets to give Augusta a 26-to-20 victory over a strong Westchester (N. Y.) team in one of the best games ever seen here.

Slated for Yale

Rockville Beats Silver Spring In Upset

Is Victor by 16-13 Score; Gaithersburg, Sherwood Also Win.

A DETERMINED and underrated Rockville team crossed the dope on the favored Silver Spring tossers yesterday to win the feature game in the Montgomery County League that saw two other contests run true to form, Sherwood swamping Poolesville and Gaithersburg trouncing Damascus.

The battle at Rockville was a ding-dong affair, with the winners' 3-point margin of 16-13 at the end of the fray being the biggest difference between the teams at any time. The first quarter score was 4-4; at half time the Springers led, 8-7. With baskets at a premium, the two teams were entirely on the defensive in the second half and the score was tied four times.

Starkey Gets Goal.

With but two minutes to play Starkey potted one from 30 feet, and although the Taksils shot from all angles, the ball evaded the hoop. Durbin converted a foul in the last 20 seconds to clinch the contest, the biggest upset of the present series. Durbin was highly outstanding with 11 points, while Wolfe, with 6, was high for the losers.

Sherwood High hit on cylinders in swamping the Poolesville quintet, 22-8, holding its opponents scoreless in the first half while compiling 15 points.

Gaithersburg won on its home floor over the Damascus five, 26-14. The eventual winners led only 11-7 at the half but with Reed in top form in the second period they had little difficulty in piling up a large score. Hawkins was the lone consistent scorer for the losers.

Pond Is Seen New Coach At Yale

Paper Says Former Eli Hero and New Staff Will Be Named.

Greasy Neale Slated as Aid; Root Remains as Frosh Pilot.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Jan. 26 (AP).—Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond, Yale football hero of the 1923 and 1924 seasons loomed tonight as the possible successor to Reginald (Reggie) Root as head coach of Yale football.

To Yale and Harvard men the vivid memory of Ducky of Ducky Pond is of the touchdown he made through a sea of mud in the Harvard Stadium in 1923, which gave Yale the victory, 13 to 0. It was aptly said of his feat at the time that he "swam" for a touchdown.

The New Haven Register says Pond, whose home is in Torrington, Conn., will be named to the chief football position at the university, and with his selection will come a complete change in the coaching staffs, except that Root, alone to be reengaged, will coach the Yale freshman. This would be a familiar task for him as he was promoted from that berth to succeed Dr. Marvin (Mal) Stevens, when the latter gave up the varsity coaching place a year ago.

Neale Slated for Job.

The tentative coaching line-up as given by the Register has Alfred Earl (Greasy) Neale, former baseball star with Cincinnati and Philadelphia in the National League and a football coach at West Virginia Wesleyan, his alma mater, Marietta College and West Virginia, as coach of the varsity backfield.

The others would be Bennie Oosterbaan, former Michigan star and end coach in charge of the varsity ends, and Jack Blott, Michigan line coach, as coach of the Yale forwards.

At Yale there was no comment to be made on the Register's array of coaches. Malcolm Farmer, chairman of the board of athletic control, is homeward bound from a trip somewhere and his arrival tomorrow was expected to be so late there would be no opportunity for a meeting of the board which would consider the recommendations of the chairman. The possibility of a meeting Sunday was put forward, however, and it was stated that unless "something happened" there would be an announcement as to the coaching staffs immediately thereafter.

With a change in coaching staffs possible, and deemed likely, there was some speculation as to the future of the coaches of the past season. All football contracts ended with the Princeton game.

Paul ("Bucky") O'Connor, Notre Dame back field ace of two years ago, is studying in the Yale School of Medicine.

Albie Booth is reported by the Register as headed for Richmond University or the University of Vermont.

Walsh Goes Elsewhere.

Adam Walsh, captain of the Notre Dame team of 1924, head coach at Santa Clara, and since 1928 line coach at Yale, already has completed negotiations for a position elsewhere, the Register said.

The paper further says that the freshman staff lacks a back-field coach, who is expected to be known within the next 24 hours.

Charlie Comerford, for the last ten years in charge of Yale ends, has had no word that he would be needed again. And the Register says Yale authorities have not yet informed him that he is through.

There remains the selection of the junior varsity coaching staff, but the Register reports in this matter that the Jayvee teams may be dropped.

Pond is a former baseball star and captained the Yale 1925 team while he was pitcher on the team. Since graduation he has been connected with the Yale athletic situation in both baseball and football, and he was mentioned prominently for the head coaching job when Mal Stevens replaced Tad Jones, and again a year ago when Root replaced Stevens.

Bristol Takes Sixth.

Two More Points for Eastern High in Rout of Tech Quintet

The heroic effort of Josh Billings (No. 7), of Tech, who is attempting to batter down a shot by Jack McCarthy, failed in the last period yesterday and McCarthy (No. 13) saw his goal contribute to Eastern's already overwhelming victory.

Bowen-Firpo In Portner's Feature

Capital Boy Will Battle Nationally Known Star Tuesday Night.

FROM the standpoint of styles, the Ray Bowen-Joe Firpo 10-round main event at Portner's Tuesday seems the answer to a promoter's prayer—a perfect match. In actual operation, the contest may, in perfect prize fight fashion, devolve into something else again.

Bowen is a boxer, with a smart enough punch. Firpo is an anomaly—a welterweight from the waist down and a heavyweight from there up—who packs the punch of a Sazerac cocktail.

Bowen fights best against outstanding opposition—and the Pennsgrove Italian may safely be classed as that. His record includes a very one-sided 12 round win over Benny Bass, a knockout of Henry Perlick and wins over Frankie Hayes, Joey Costa, Buster Brown and Joey Harrison.

Bowen's Record Good.

Bowen has nailed to the mast Henry Janco, Freddy Haverlak, Tommy Bashara and Pete De Angelis among the higher-calibered opposition he has faced. He soundly trounced Roy Manley and Lou Raymond and made a good stand against Wesley Ramey, No. 2 lightweight contender, who was forced to sparkle as he never sparkled before to outbox the lantern-jawed Washington welter.

There is only one fly in the pre-fight "rosy prediction" ointment—the question of whether or not Firpo has slipped, and, if so, how much. His most recent performances have not been up to the high standard he set a year or two ago and many are wondering. Nevertheless, he can still punch—and that always makes an interesting fight.

In an eight-round scrimmage, semifinal, Bob Lowry gets a long-sought-after chance against Johnny Mays. Lowry, who ordinarily would not be given a look-in against such classy opposition, is being installed an almost even-money shot against Mays because of great improvement in his form.

Three four-rounders fill out the program. In them Joe Green, promising young District feather, meets Earl Wise, of Baltimore; Pete Buonavari tackles Tony Coster, also of Baltimore, and Sailor McKenna boxes Tom Rock.

A Thousand Years From Now

By Jimmy Powers (Pinch-Hitting for Gallico).

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (Spl.).—If the faces of the New York Rangers are unduly solemn in Madison Square Garden Sunday night, hockey fans will be justified in surmising they are still contemplating the past week's ceremonies and not the reappearance of the bellicose Edward Shore. They will be playing their game No. 402, but no one will strike off a medal for that nor will the band render the ever-mournful "Auld Lang Syne." Unround numbers are not impressive enough to count and so one by one and without further notice the scarred men of that gallant crew will skate separately off the rink and at decent intervals, most likely, into oblivion. Is there anyone, I wonder, not fascinated by time and disturbed by the way we mark its passing?

I would like to wager that none of that hard-bitten crew on "400 game night"—their last previous home stand—out there so proudly on freshly filed steel will soon forget details of the evening, humble impressions such as alien voices rasping so loudly in the speakers, the surf beat of cheers or the owl-like elevation of Ching Johnson's perpetually surprised brows.

I once asked John McGraw and he told me he could remember to the most petty particular the winning of his Giants' first pennant and their last. There were other ball games, perhaps better, that McGraw had bossed out and forgotten, but the ones pegged by time were still there unrolling on the screen of his mind as soon as he started the projector.

Time is best ignored. I doubt if the plated signet rings or the pretty speeches offset the disquieting thoughts that stirred the brains of our veteran ice-shinny heroes. "We have played so long and so well that it is a record and here have come all these people to look at us." Who will deny that the very next reflection was an uneasy, "When will it end?" and "Will I be first to go?" How many games before the bald Johnson wearily hoists his padded knees over the boards for the last time? How long before the elder Cook slumps to the low bench to watch with solemn eyes an eager young forward surge joyfully past him into battle?

That will be some night in the four-hundreds or maybe the five-hundreds. It will come, as we know, inevitably and all too soon. I grant you these sobering rituals are justified but they do give one's heart a twinge.

I would like to have a ticket to the Garden some winter night 100 or even 1,000 years from now. It is just possible that a sports writer not yet born will idly turn up these lines in a molded, yellow file. He will smile a tolerant smile, no doubt, and sniff patronizingly at our vaunted Ranger "originals." Four hundred and two games, indeed! There then, doubtless, will be synthetic food tablets to prolong life, an improved television and a sky thick with droning aerial hackneys. All things will be altered and our current hockey team photographs will appear as ridiculous, esthetically, as civil war daguerrotypes.

But some things, I like to think, will be the same. There will still be sports and a Garden, of course, even though its name and location are far different. The same emotions of joy in victory, sadness in defeat, the quick anger of bored patrons, the incivility of ushers, all will be there, for there will ever be servants vainly seeking to impress customers they are their equals. There will be snatches of familiar music and there may even be the same beetle-eyed, wooden-faced gamesters in the lobby laying outrageous odds, for the urge to speculate has always been with us, from Chinese pirates with bamboo sticks and Roman sailors banking dice cubes against furled sails down to today. There will even be mean scandals and dishonest referees for it is too much to hope for sterilization and complete purity ever.

Stafford, of Army, Fails to Pass, Out

Varsity Grid Prospect Was Star at Texas U.

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP).—Army has lost one of its outstanding varsity football prospects for this year, Harrison Stafford, former University of Texas star, as a result of his failure to pass mid-term examinations, it developed today. He has already left the Military Academy.

Stafford entered West Point after a football career that gained him prominence in the Southwest Conference. He was an all-conference back and named on the second Associated Press all-American consensus team in 1932.

Playing with the Plebe team early last fall, Stafford impressed cadet coaches as one of the best running, kicking and blocking backs on the squad.

Comeback Is Planned By De Palma, Now 50

Pittsburgh, Jan. 26 (AP).—Ralph de Palma is 50 years old and his hair is snow-white, but the old master of the automobile race track asserts he isn't through as a racer.

In Pittsburgh for the automobile show, De Palma says he is planning a comeback in the 500-mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis, where he became one of motor racing's immortals.

His first move toward a return to the track will be made in Los Angeles next month, he says.

Wilcy Moore, of Yanks, Bought by Kansas City

Kansas City, Jan. 26 (AP).—Wilcy Moore, veteran right-handed pitcher, has been purchased by the Kansas City American Association club from the New York Yankees. The purchase is contingent on Moore's signing a contract. The price was not made public.

3 College Tilts Slated Here Tonight

Hoyas Play Mt. St. Mary's; C. U. Choice Over Rider; Gallaudet Underdog.

FOLLOWING a week's lay-off after its upset of Temple, Georgetown goes back into action tonight to help the city's basket ball card of three games. Mount St. Mary's, boasting another powerful team, meets the Hilltoppers at Tech High School. Catholic University has an important date with Rider at Brookland, and Gallaudet will tackle Philadelphia College of Pharmacy at Kendall Green. All games start at 8 o'clock.

Two Washington boys will grace Mount St. Mary's line-up. Eaton Chalkley, a forward, hails from Eastern High School, while Tom Lynch, brother of Joe, who starred at the Mount two years ago, matriculated at Gonzaga. Both have been playing great ball and had important roles in their team's 35-17 victory over Washington College last week.

Stubborn Opponent.

Georgetown appears to be in good shape and should win. All it must do to clinch the verdict is to play as it did against Temple a week ago. But the Emmitsburg quintet has been blazing a trail through Eastern court circles this season and will be a stubborn opponent.

Catholic University has a year-old score to settle with Rider and unless it shows a sudden reversal of form should win. Rider's record shows victories over Bloomfield and Georgia Tech, but there also are a couple of blotches, put there by Geneva and La Salle. Catholic tripped La Salle earlier in the season in a close battle at Philadelphia.

To Rely On Regulars.

Coach Forrest Cotton will rely on his regulars, Bernie Lieb, Ed White, Gene Augusterfer, Abe Rosefield and Babe Gearty. Rider will use Vincent O'Hara and Angelo Tramantan, forwards; Lew Needham, center, and Capt. Ted Strychartz and Mario Rossi, guards.

Gallaudet will be the underdog against the Pharmacists, with Heimo Antila, regular center, on the injured list and Jimmy Rayhill out of school. Rayhill quit school and departed last night for New York to accept a position. This leaves Burnett and Goodin to carry the burden aided by three inexperienced men.

Sheppard, Mathews To Feature Ring Card

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 26 (Spl.).—Mel Sheppard and Will Mathews, two heavyweights, will be featured when boxing shows are revived here next Wednesday at the State Armory.

Max Prock and Joe Goeller, Baltimore, are promoting the shows.

Mathews recently won from Dewey Kimmery, Portsmouth, Va., and lost a close decision to Tony Galinta, Newark, N. J.

Kid Norfolk and Jimmy Cooper will meet in the semifinal.

Maryland Five Routs Virginia Quintet, 43-20

Central Held To 34-27 by Western

Maroons Knocked Out of Leadership Tie as Nolan, Dean Star.

Red and White Le 18-13 at Half Central Clash.

Standing of the Teams.

	W.	L.	Pct.

Games Tuesday.

Western vs. Tech.
Roosevelt vs. Central.

EASTERN and Central rule the interhigh basket ball roost today. Central kicked over a Western lead in the final period of play to win, 34-27. Eastern smeared a stubborn Tech outfit out of the tritied leadership, 49-27.

Although the results of the ga ran true to form, it was a late st ing Central five that rushed a fl of baskets through a wilted Western five to maintain the league leadership along with Eastern.

Eastern, displaying a brand of ball, an exact duplicate of the slugging it administered to Central last Tuesday, started off in steam-roller fashion with the Tech outfit left far in the rear. After Josh Billings tied the score at 2-all, the Maroon and Gray failed to come close in the piled-up score.

Nolan and Dean Shine.

Featuring in the sterling offensive of the Easterns were Tommy Nolan and Dizzy Dean, who clipped the Tech baskets for points that sounded like a crack stenographers' typewriting race. It was appa after the first five minutes of that Eastern was "on" and the game "in." The score at the half stood 25-15, by reason of a final moment flash of basket shooting. Ten minutes before to end the first quarter, the Lincoln Parkers enjoyed a 14-8 advantage.

Tom Davis' play off the bankboard was particularly fine. And the snowbird shots he scored were carried out in brilliant fashion.

Once again Reds Daly and Josh Billings played fine basket ball for Tech, but the Eastern combination as well as the lack of heighth on the part of their team mates, was too much for them.

How That Boy Passes!

No story of the game is complete without mention of the sensational passing and miraculous ball handling of Tommy Nolan, Eastern's captain. This young man gave an exhibition of team play unequaled in series competition since the days of Pete Nee, Julie Radice, Bill Banta, Ralph Bennie, Jim Thompson and others who made the all-high grade some years ago. No intercepted passes with regular fed his team mates with lightni assists and without hogging sho accounted for 6 field goals.

Likewise no story of the Western-Central game is complete without mention of the fact that Coach Moore of the Red and White broke up what appeared to be a winning combination. His boys were giving Central a rough time of it as long as they had Loveless at center to equal and at times outjump Bryant. Loveless, during his stay, made 3 field goals and handled himself like a basket ball veteran.

Moore shifted men several times during the last 20 minutes, but he never returned to the combination which outplayed and outgamed Central for the first half. Figure it out for yourself.

Western Marches Ahead.

Western started a scoring stampede at the start of the second period after lagging at the first quarter, 7-2. Eight field goals, twice as many as they made the other three quarters, were dumped into the Central bucket in easy fashion and it looked like Western's first win in 25 series starts was about to be unfolded. The half ended 18-13.

But then the plain and fancy line-up juggling started and, with Allen and Loveless out of action, Central went to town.

Len Delisio, Central guard, tied up the score at 24-all in the fag end moments of the third quarter and King Kong Mandes whipped through the shot that put the Lincoln Parkers ahead for the remainder of the game.

Repaid Overtakes Pastry, Long Shot, to Win Hialeah Feature by Half Length

$6.60 Victor Responds In Drive

Jungle King, Favorite, Finishes Third After Early Speed.

Large Crowd Attends; Mountain Elk Pays 20-1 in Fourth.

HIALEAH PARK, Jan. 26 (AP).—Repaid, a colt that might have won his last start at Tropical Park under better handling, finally returned to winning form here today when he won the Orange Blossom purse of 1 mile in the cherry, orange and white colors of "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons, veteran successful trainer. Once again J. E. Widener could only come close to being represented by a winner, for his 4-year-old, Pastry, a long shot, lost the purse by a half length. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Jungle King, which finished second to Charley O. in the Florida Derby of 1933, was third, five lengths behind.

Repaid was second choice to Jungle King, paying $6.60. The colt ran the 8 furlongs in 1:36 4-5 under the feathery impost of 103 pounds. A large crowd saw the event and the mutuel machines were about twice as busy as they were on the second day a year ago.

Marred by Bad Start.

The feature was badly marred by a bad start. Pastry got a "step at it," while At Top was good as left. Mad Frump also had slight chance. Pastry showed the way, and the heavily backed Jungle King showed brief early foot, dropping back after sampling the pacemaker's speed. The favorite may have needed the race. Chatmoss and Repaid moved up threateningly after leaving the far side, but Chatmoss flattened out in the stretch. Repaid responded willingly and finally wore down Pastry, the latter holding on well in the drive.

Chance Line, a first-time starter, apparently had the initial race well in hand when straightened into the stretch five lengths in the van, but fate decreed that J. E. Widener's silks would have to wait longer for their first triumphant breeze. Jockey Gilbert struck the green 3-year-old with the whip as the colt was changing stride and Chance Line, unused to such treatment, threw his hindquarters against the inner rail, wobbled and nearly fell. Sun Stream, closest in pursuit at the time, quickly sped to the front and won easily by four lengths to pay $8.50. Chance Line recovered and beat Jack Low by daylight for the place.

Red Sunset Wins.

Red Sunset was on top from end to end in the three-furlong baby race, but the High Time filly swerved considerably while Duncans Leap was right alongside forcing the pace. The winner held on gamely to score by a half-length, but her backers were rather anxious until the official numbers were hoisted, fearing a possible disqualification. Duncans Leap, making her first start, was installed a 1-to-2 favorite on the strength of speedy trials. She ran a fine race to earn the place two lengths before Tabitha. The winner paid $5.50.

Wayne Wright exhibited a fine brand of riding to shove the $12.90 shot, Flying Sailor, over the finish line a neck winner of the third. North Mill was an easy second over Claremont. Fancy Flight, the choice, under Earl Porter, ran a very dull race and beat one horse. Wright and Hunter hooked up in a thrilling rider's duel right from the break, the latter keeping North Mill's head in front until the last furlong, where Flying Sailor stretched his head to the fore and refused to be beaten.

Mountain Elk Scores.

Away from the races since last fall in Maryland, Mountain Elk returned to action in the fourth race at better than 20 to 1 and registered an impressive victory over some smart sprinters. Strongly handled by Johnny Gilbert, the 6-year-old closed with a rush to nose out the favorite, Miney Myerson. Quickly set most of the pace, but tired and was a close third. Mountain Elk was "at tops," keeping close up from the start and responding with splendid courage under pressure.

Triangular, a plater that performed successfully in Maryland, was too good for the field in the sixth event. Lee Humphries gave the gelding a nice ride, coming from off the pace to win by four lengths from Cash Surrender. Bartering Kate, beaten three lengths for the place, failed to justify a strong play. Triangular, paying $11.30, ran the mile in 1:36 4-5.

Earl Porter lifted Attribute, $7.10, over the line a winner of the last contest by a nose. Resisting beat Kibitzer by four lengths for the place. Jockey De Camillas was tossed from Scotch Soldier at the three-eighths pole, but he escaped injury.

Proseltying Apology "Demanded" of Iowa

Los Angeles, Jan. 26 (AP).—Athletic officials of the University of Southern California today asked the University of Iowa to repudiate its charge of proseltying in connection with the migration of Duane Swanson and Wayne Froning from Iowa City to the Southern California campus.

Saying Southern California had been placed in an unfavorable light by "rumors and intimations" of proselyting, Prof. Hugh C. Willett, faculty athletic adviser and president of the Pacific Coast Conference, wrote Iowa officials that U. S. C. would not consider the incident closed until an apology was made. Swanson and Froning arrived here this week.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

Strange as it seems, the battleship Maine was sunk twice. The first, and most noteworthy sinking, was in the harbor of Havana—an event that was one of the immediate causes of the Spanish-American War.

The second sinking was by the United States' own Navy, and it did not take place until after the Spanish-American War was over. The Maine lay several years in the harbor of Havana, where she was mysteriously sunk by an explosion in 1898. After the war, however, the old ship was raised by the United States, towed out to sea a few miles, and sunk again with honors.

The strange golf shot by Dr. Phipps was made out of a sand trap. He struck the ball with a niblick, but instead of clearing the trap, it went into the air over his head and landed in his hip pocket. The pocket was held open by a handkerchief which Dr. Phipps had stuffed in it a few minutes before.

Dear Al: Hialeah Race Track, Jan. 26.

These are truly trying days for your friend Bennings. If I don't show some sudden improvement, I will find myself over in Mississippi picking cotton before the meeting is over. I'm even thinking about sending out an S O S for Clocker Mike, but that would mean I'd have him to feed for the rest of his life. However, if I don't break the jinx tomorrow I'm going to put numbers in a hat, providing I can borrow one, and draw for the horses. This really looks like a race meeting. The mutuels were clicking for a fare-thee-well again today. Everybody and his cousin were at the track. Celebrities were selling for a dime a doen. Many of the better knowns got up from the breakfast tables to rush out to thepark in time for the feature race. BILL.

First race—Phantom Legion appears to have found a spot in this mile race. Recent efforts attest to his shape and I see no reason for a miss. Kindacorn, a frequenter of the money circle in Maryland last fall, has been reconditioned and is said to be ready for a hard race. Eurydice gets in with a feather assignment and is dangerous.

Second race—Jim Crawford and Hillse, both winners here, seem to have this purse between them. The one that gets the best of the break will step home. That's the way I see it. Pollydeena to take care of the others.

Third race—Mumsie is said to be due for a victory at a good mutuel. Word has been passed along to me and I'm passing it to you. Crooh has been earning his oats hereabouts and has to be considered. Best By Test, a Bradleyite, may give the talent a shock.

Fourth race—Irene's Bob will do a lot of running tomorrow and I believe it will be sufficient to take care of this field of sprinters. Porter's Dream is reported sharp and fit and will have something to say in the distribution of this purse. Crazy Jane is recommended by fast trials.

Fifth race—Agrarian has shown a lot of speed in Florida racing and iswell placed here. Brown Toney breaks off the rail and is the one to beat. Sassafras to get in the money circle.

Sixth race—Merrily On bit off a little more than he could chew in that race the other day. Should be at home among this kind. Standout gets the place call ahead of the disappointing Well Built.

Seventh race—Scoutmaster to give the favorites a drubbing in the final. Waterway and Carbon for what is left.

Virginia Is Host To N. C. Team In Ring

Cavaliers Have Only Trio of Veterans to Send Against Foe.

UNIVERSITY, Va., Jan. 26 (Spl.).—Virginia and North Carolina boxers meet in the ring for the tenth time tomorrow night in the Memorial Gymnasium. The varsity bouts will be preceded by freshman matches which begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Johnny LaRowe, Virginia's ring coach, is inclined to be somewhat pessimistic regarding the probable outcome. The Carolinians have five ring veterans to match against Virgina's three.

Archie Hahn, Virgina's bantamweight champion of the Southern Conference, in the opening varsity scrap will face either Cliff Glover, senior and letterman, or a highly promising Carolina sophomore, Ernest Eutsler.

Rainey Meets Williams.

Two other veterans should meet in the featherweight class. Gordon Rainey, representing Virginia, is set to trade licks with Jimmy Williams for Carolina. Lewis Bosher, jr., probably will be the man selected by Coach LaRowe to face Norment Quarles, the Tarheel holder of the conference featherweight title, who is now a lightweight.

Virginia's up-and-coming young welterweight, Maynard Womer, must take on a man of experience in Nat Lumpkin, letterman and senior. Steven Tegu, another novice, will probably get the call from Virginia to face Carolina's veteran junior-middleweight, Sam Giddings.

Both teams have inexperienced men in the two top classes. Lyn Lee, Virginia's light heavyweight, got a decision in his only bout this winter, while Marvin Ray won both his by knockouts. In the heavyweight division the Virginian, Gene Hourihan, meets Jim Carruths, another unlimited of little experience. With both men trying to make up for defeats last week the bout should be fast.

The North Carolinians arrived here at 4 o'clock this afternoon and one hour later were put through a fast workout in Memorial Gymnasium.

Left behind at Chapel Hill was Morty Ellisburg, Tar Heel ace in the 160-pound class, who was slated to fact Capt. Harold Stuart, of the Cavaliers. His place will be taken by Hornaday, a novice.

Closer Penalties Cooperation Is Urged by New Turf Group

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP).—With the hopes of eventually establishing a set of uniform rules for thoroughbred racing, eight State commissioners, who yesterday formed the National Association of Racing Commissioners, today agreed that every turf-governing body in the United States should recognize the penalties imposed by other turf-governing organizations.

Although most commissions have in their rules and regulations a provision that the action of any commission or governing body is binding upon them, the resolution adopted is expected to bring about an exchange of information more quickly and the use of it more effectively than has been the practice in the past.

Penalty Notification.

The resolution, as presented by Walter H. Donovan, secretary of the Florida Racing Commission, follows:

"1. We agree that each State commission or other turf-governing bodies shall immediately notify all other commissions and turf-governing bodies of infractions rules and penalties imposed.

"2. This association stands firmly upon the proposition that upon notification, the penalties thus imposed should be effective and enforced by every commission and turf-governing body in the United States.

"3. That a complete report of the rulings by the stewards be exchanged at the end of each meeting.

Cooperation Seen.

Ralph W. Davis, of New Hampshire, said he believed there will be voluntary cooperation among all the State commissions, whether members of the National association or not. James F. Hayward, of Maryland, and Theodore E. Mueller, of Kentucky, pointed out that their States now recognized penalties imposed in other States.

Such was the case last May when Don Meade and R. J. Fisher were set down for rough riding in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs. Neither was eligible to ride in the Preakness the following week at Pimlico, Md.

Racing in Arkansas.

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 26 (AP). Plans for conducting a 21-day horse race meeting at Oaklawn Park, beginning March 1, were announced today by the newly formed Business Men's Racing Association. Plans call for making the race meet a permanent spring feature. There was no reference to any form of betting, which is prohibited by State law.

New Orleans Race To Hickory Lad

Westrope Rides Favorite Home in Feature.

New Orleans, Jan. 26 (AP).—Hickory Lad, a 3-year-old son of Ladkin, found the slow track at the Fair Grounds to his liking today and carried the silks of W. C. Reichert to victory in the mile feature.

Ridden by Johnny Westrope, Hickory Lad came from off the pace to win going away by two lengths from W. F. Axton's Two Sons. Mrs. F. P. Letellier's Southland Duke was third in the field of seven.

Two Sons, guided by Eddie Arcaro, was out in front for the greater part of the distance, holding a two-length advantage heading into the stretch. He weakened before Hickory Lad's drive, however, and just managed to save the place from Southland Duke, which forced the early pace.

Hickory Lad was the even-money choice, paying $4.20. He was clocked in the slow time of 1:45, more than seven seconds off the track record.

Stocks Balked In Efforts to Continue Rise

Prices Drop Seven-tenths on Heavier Sale of 2,516,870 Shares.

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—Stocks found further progress difficult in many directions today, although numerous specialties continued to forge ahead.

While aviation, food, motor accessory, tobacco and a miscellaneous assortment of other issues were making the most of the support provided them, the rank and file offered considerable resistance to an advance, dipping in the last half hour.

For the averages the net change was a decline of seven-tenths in a turnover of 2,516,870 shares.

Traders Become Cautious.

The market's hesitancy during the last couple of days has made for greater caution among speculative traders, and Wall street, although professing to see an underlying current of bullishness, is weighing the possibilities of a reaction, especially since the industrial averages shied away after their recent move toward the July highs.

There were extreme gains of 1 to around 3 points today in the groups mentioned and this improvement was fairly well held despite declines of fractions to a point or so among many of the so-called pivotal issues.

Automobile stocks, evidently impressed by the General Motors earnings statement, made an early bid for favor but did not get very far. Aviation shares took another ride, the highest flight occurring in Wright Aeronautical, which skyrocketed nearly 20. This issue, traded in 10-share lots, is usually inactive and the floating supply is limited.

On Active List.

Douglas, Electric Auto-lite, Curtiss Wright, National Biscuit, Corn Products, Penick & Ford, Nash, Timken, Ligget & Myers "B" and American Tobacco "B" were prominent at one time or other.

Allied Chemical reached a new 1933-34 high but closed unchanged. Bethlehem, Westinghouse, American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, Du Pont, Chrysler, General Motors, General Electric and American Can finished lower.

Interest attached to the dollar's advance and to word that the first lot of gold bought abroad for the Treasury in its efforts at currency control was being brought to this country. Sterling reached a new low since last November under $4.95.

Gold From France.

No official comment was available here as to the export of 80,000,000 francs in gold from France to the New York Federal Reserve Bank, though it was assumed that this might represent the initial consignment in a series of such transfers.

The shipment's size indicated gold buying had been larger than supposed. The Bank of France is losing metal again, though Paris advices said this might be offset in part by receipts from Holland and Switzerland whose currencies are now near their gold points in relation to the franc.

Rail stocks were rather sluggish; Northern Pacific gained a point, but Santa Fe lost as much. Last week's freight loadings were above 1933 and the previous week, the latter improvement being in contrast to a small decline a year ago. December operating figures reflect the better movement of goods, though net for some roads was probably held down by larger maintenance expenditures.

Capital Brokerage Office to Expand

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. to Absorb Staff of Goodbody Co.

An important change in the local financial district was announced yesterday. Hemphill, Noyes & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, announced that C. Shelton Buchanan, Joseph C. Sheehy, Alexander McCook Dunlop and Peirce Marston, formerly of Goodbody & Co. in Washington, will join the Washington office of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., effective Monday.

Goodbody & Co. are closing their Washington office today. Chester W. Lockwood and Thomas J. Mangan, jr., will continue as comanagers of Hemphill, Noyes & Co.'s local office, which is expanding into larger quarters on the messanine floor of the Shoreham Building.

New facilities are being added, including a board room. The new office will be connected by a private direct duplex wire to the firm's New York office, and will be a part of the company's wire system, which extends to 24 cities throughout the Eastern part of the United States.

This is the second consolidation that Hemphill, Noyes & Co. have negotiated with other New York Stock Exchange firms within the past two years. This firm was originally formed in 1915 and is favorably known as one of the larger investment banking and brokerage organizations in the United States.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Machine Tools—Orders booked thus far in January are estimated to be the largest received for any corresponding period in the last three years.

Electrical equipment—Manufacturers are increasing operating schedules in household appliances and novelties. In the heavier lines orders continue to run in small volume.

Furniture—Gross orders booked by furniture manufacturers in 1933 were 19½ per cent larger than in 1932, and shipments exceeded those of the previous year by 13½ per cent, according to Seidman & Seidman, accountants to the industry. It was the first year since 1928, says the firm, to show improvement over the previous year.

Robey's Review

Day-by-Day Record of Gold Movements Last March and April Do Not Support the Thesis That Our Currency Must Be Inconvertible.

By Ralph West Robey.

Once again, as a result of the pending gold bill, the question has arisen of the right of individuals to demand gold for their currency. This subject, it will be recalled, was widely discussed last March and April following, first, the suspension of specie payments on March 4, and later, the embargo on all gold exports. At the time it was maintained that individuals did not have this right because there was not enough gold to go around. It was concluded, accordingly, that the Administration was justified in making it illegal for individuals even to hold gold. The same general argument was used to justify the Government's repudiation of its obligations through outlawing the gold clause.

One of the principal spokesmen for this point of view at that time was Walter Lippmann. In one of his current syndicated articles he returns to this old thesis in the course of a defense of the Government's taking over the gold of the Reserve banks. Thus he says: " . . . the only reason there is any gold there (in the Reserve banks) to quarrel about is that the Government stepped in last March and relieved the Reserve banks of their legal duty to redeem their obligations in gold." He concludes, therefore, that "it is absurd to regard that stock of gold as the property of the Federal Reserve Banks."

First Statement a Matter of Opinion.

Whether the first of these statements is true always will be a subject of debate. Certainly the banking system, and the gold reserve of the Reserve banks, was being subjected to a severe strain in the weeks immediately preceding March 4. Many people are convinced that a suspension of specie payments was the only means of meeting this run and that had the Government not stepped in the entire gold supply would have passed into the hands of individuals. Whether this is true can not be proved one way or the other. Let us grant for the purpose of argument, however, that it is—that it was imperative to stop the outflow of metal. What, then, about the conclusion that it is absurd to consider the gold that remained with the Reserve banks as their property? It does not seem to me that this follows. Further, it does not seem to me that this is a matter of opinion, as is the first statement, but one of cold facts.

In other words, this second statement must stand or fall on the basis of gold movements following the suspension of specie payments. Here is the record by days—(in thousands of dollars)—for the two months from February 20 to April 19, inclusive:

Record Shows Conclusively That Confidence Returned.

This record is, it seems to me, about as conclusive as anything could be. It shows clearly the immense strain to which the gold reserve was being subjected from abroad immediately preceding the bank holiday and then the complete lack of pressure from this source after the banks were reopened. Thus, it will be noticed (last column) that there were only two days after March 9, when the banks were reopened, that we had a net loss of gold abroad.

What happened, then, was simply that the days just preceding March 4 the American public and foreigners were in a panic. They saw clearly that a collapse was ahead and tried to protect themselves by converting their funds into gold. By the time the banks were reopened this panic feeling had been replaced by confidence. No longer was there the mad rush to get gold. Consequently metal started to flow back into the country.

It is not accurate, therefore, to say that had we not had the gold embargo the reserve banks would not have any gold "to quarrel about." Before the embargo was imposed, the panic had been met and metal was being deposited. The task was to stop the panic. This was done by convincing the public that the banking system, or that portion of it that was permitted to reopen, was solvent. The embargo came six weeks later—and after six weeks of daily evidence that the necessary confidence had been restored.

Mr. Lippman is not justified, therefore, in concluding that because we had a panic demand for gold in the latter part of February "it is absurd to regard that stock of gold as the property of the Federal Reserve banks." It would be just as sound to maintain that a panicky theater crowd being unable to get out the doors all at once, never can get out even though order is restored. Or that since all of us can not drive down Pennsylvania Avenue simultaneously, none of us has a right to drive down the Avenue.

Bond Market Is Unchanged; At 81.2 Level

Minor Gains and Losses Balance Results; Sales, $15,263,000.

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—Minor gains and losses predominated in today's quieter bond market, although there were a few scattered advances as well as declines of a substantial character.

Sales totaled $15,263,000 par value, against $16,501,000 yesterday and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans was again unchanged at 81.2.

Traders and investors seemed a little hesitant in view of the steady advances in prices which had brought the average up more than 10 points since December 1, last.

Profit-Taking in Evidence.

Considerable profit-taking in various categories, however, was usually well absorbed. Business and industry continued to move ahead. Foreign trade figures for December showed a contra-seasonal gain and car loadings for the week ended January 20, were up moderately.

Announcement that the Treasury's billion-dollar loan had received subscriptions of $4,770,000,000 was cheering to the financial section. In both the notes and certificates subscriptions of $10,000 or less were alotted in full. Above that figure, note subscribers will get 14 per cent and certificate applicants will receive 38 per cent. Listed U. S. Government securities were dull and their price changes extremely narrow.

Among the best corporate performers were liens of Denver & Rio Grande, up 1 to more than 3, on reports that the directors tomorrow will vote payment of the February 1 interest on the 5s of 1955. Some doubts had been voiced as to the advisability of the disbursement at this time.

On Advancing List.

Others in the advancing limelight included Toledo & Ohio general 5s, up 11¾; Indiana, Bloomington & Western 4s, up 6½; Bangor & Aroostock 4s, up 3½; Goodrich 6s, up 1⅝; Illinois Central collateral 4s, up 1¾; International Paper 6s, up 3½; Utah Power 5s, up 2¾, and American Writing Papers 6s, up 2½.

Cuban obligations were up 1 to 9 points on a small turnover, and issues of Uruguay were ahead around 2 to 3. German bonds declined 1 to 5 in active trading, apparently reflecting indications that the Reich will resist Washington's efforts against a reduction of interest payments on dollar loans.

Dutch East Indies issues were off 1 to more than 2, and similar losses were recorded by bonds of New South Wales, Norway, Batavia, Bavaria, Peru and Chile.

Gain Noted in Canada's Export to Great Britain

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 26 (U.P.).—A remarkable increase in Canadian domestic exports to British Empire countries and particularly the United Kingdom in November was recorded, as compared with November, 1932.

The total to British Empire countries was $33,693,346, compared with $22,644,307, an increase of 48.7 per cent. Exports to the United Kingdom amounted to $28,874,828, an increase of 50 per cent over the preceding year.

Alcohols showed moderate gains, but metals were mixed. Utilities were fairly steady excepting Electric Bond & Share, which eased a point. Oils were quiet and narrow.

Newmont, Aluminum Co. of America and Safety Car Heating dipped around a point or more. Swift & Co., Gulf & Humble Oils, American Gas & Electric and Lake Shore ruled unchanged to slightly improved. Cotton Reacts Slightly Under Liquidation

March Closes at 10.00 as General Market Drops 8 to 11 Points.

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—After holding fairly steady during the greater part of the day, cotton weakened under a renewal of liquidation and scattered selling. Many contracts which had sold up to 11.31 broke to 11.15 in the late trading and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 8 to 11 points.

An advance of 4 to 6 points brought out selling which reached a considerable volume in the late trading. March broke to 11.00 and July to 11.31, with closing quotations at the lowest of the day.

Comparatively little Southern selling was reported here during the day and the bulk of the afternoon pressure was attributed to liquidation of long accounts.

Some early selling was attributed to the undoing of arbitrage straddles, but this tapered off after the close of Liverpool.

Nothing was heard of any change in the spot situation, but private reports that farmers in some sections of the South were showing less inclination to cooperate in the acreage reduction program were said to be reaching the market during the afternoon.

Exports today, 44,109 bales, making 4,866,259 bales so far this season. Port receipts, 21,338 bales. United States port stocks, 3,833,419 bales.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was firm today on covering and commission house buying, which was influenced by news from Washington that the House Ways and Means Committee had approved a bill for a 5-cent per pound excise tax on cocoanut and sesame oils.

Firmness of lard and hogs was also a factor and offset the lower cotton market. Final prices were 2 to 5 points net higher. Sales were 38 contracts. Bleachable spot, nominal; January closed 4.65; March, 4.76; May, 4.98; July, 5.16.

Wool Prices Hold Steady; Demand Fair

Boston, Jan. 26 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin will say: "Demand for wool continues fair, and rather broader in the matter of grades. Prices are steady.

"At the mills, there is a little more interest reported here and there, but shipping instructions still are slow and congestion is heavy.

"Foreign markets have shown a tendency to recede from the peak positions of last week and frequently are 5 to 7½ per cent lower.

"Buyers are gradually leaving for the West. Rumors of contracting in Oregon, at what appear to be prices equal to the current Eastern market, have been difficult to confirm.

"Mohair is steady, on moderate demand."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—Bond offerings by California and Illinois account for $16,000,000 of the $20,339,259 total of State and municipal financing scheduled for next week, the Daily Bond Buyer says Illinois will offer on Tuesday $10,000,000 in revenue notes and California will ask bids on $6,000,000 in 4½ per cent unemployment relief bonds on Thursday.

The International Tin Research Council reports world consumption of tin in 1933 at 127,000 tons compared with approximately 100,000 tons in 1932. The 1933 figure, however, is 52,000 tons under the peak consumption of more than 180,000 tons in 1929.

The Bank of America, California, states in its current business review that executives of the major industries on the Pacific Coast estimate a 10 per cent increase in freight car requirements for the first quarter of 1934, as compared with the corresponding period of 1932.

Wool goods markets continued slow this week, but indications of larger demand were seen in increased activity in raw wool and spot tops markets, the New York Wool Top Exchange Service reported today. "Mills are convinced, evidently, that business improvement is in sight, and are laying in stocks of raw material to forestall advances," says the service.

George T. Smith, chairman of the board of the New Jersey Title Guarantee & Trust Co., of Jersey City, has been elected chairman of the board of the Colonial Life Insurance Co. of America to succeed the late William C. Heppenheimer.

Austria Sales Of Machinery Rise in 1933

Increasing export demand has created a more optimistic feeling in Austria's machinery industry than has been evident in recent years, according to Commercial Attache T. L. Hughes, in a report to the Commerce Department.

During the ten months ended October, 1933, shipments abroad of Austrian machinery items amounted to approximately 83,000 metric quintals valued at 17,351,000 schillings compared with 68,000 quintals valued at 17,961,000 schillings in the corresponding period of 1932.

The increased foreign business occurred particularly in woodworking machinery, pumps, steam and water turbines, textile and metal working machinery, the report points out. It is expected locally that as a result of commercial treaties, some of which have already been completed, that Austria's export trade in machinery will further improve.

Domestic sales of machinery, the report states, have not yet reflected the reported general improvement in Austrian industry. While remaining on a par with those of 1932, the demand continued low as a result of restricted building activities.

Imports of machinery into Austria during the 10-month period ended October 31 amounted to 38,311 metric quintals valued at 13,363,000 schillings compared with 57,133 metric quintals valued at 18,347,000 schillings in the corresponding period of 1932, a decline in volume of 35 per cent and in value of 26 per cent.

(Par value of schilling equals 14.07 cents, U. S. Currency). (Quintal equals 220 pounds).

Funds Given To Lighthouses Pass Million

With the awarding of $65,000 in contracts since the beginning of the year, the total value of all contracts awarded from PWA funds for the Lighthouse Service of the Department of Commerce has now exceeded the million-dollar mark, according to Commissioner George R. Putnam.

In addition, approximately $375,000 is being spent upon work other than that done by contract, these day labor projects being estimated as supplying work for approximately 100 men at the present time.

Among the contracts awarded since January 1, is one for the building of a combined shop and warehouse at the Los Angeles (Calif.) lighthouse depot, to cost $18,900; a contract for the manufacturing of 32 lighted buoys, to cost $11,840; and a contract for repair work at Cross Ledge Lighthouse, located in Delaware Bay, the cost of which will be $13,978.

Other recent contracts include the following: Building two gasoline-engined boats for buoy work upon the New England coast, $6,627; building a road to North Head Lighthouse, Wash., at a cost of $3,226; erecting minor lights at Winthrop and Cohasset, Mass., to cost $6,200; construction of a light and fog signal building at Davidson Rock, Wash., costing $4,300; and repairs to the wharf at the Woods Hole (Mass.) lighthouse depot.

French Wine Totals 7,226,226,900 Units

Paris, Jan. 26 (U.P.).—France's wine stocks amount to 7,226,226,900 (B) quarts it was estimated today.

This enormous stock, which comes both from the metropolitan territory and Algiers, is divided as follows: 1933 harvest, 6,642,182,300 (B) quarts. Wine on hand, 584,044,600 (M) quarts.

Only about 1,500,000,000 quarts are exportable wines, being mostly Bordeaux, Burgundy, Rhine and Touraine wines. The Bordeaux wines, which are among the most favored for export table wines, are included in the southwestern production, which was 745,823,370 quarts in the 1933 harvest, with 138,051,000 quarts on hand.

The Burgundy crop for 1933 was about 105,000,000, although there were 37,000,000 quarts on hand.

According to experts, the 1933 bottled vintage will be a good average year, not a "famous year," but far superior to the average years in taste and bouquet.

Walt Mason, Himself

The Impossible.

My friend's belief is strong that spirts come along from some far, mystic land, and take him by the hand, and talk for hours or more of dear friends gone before. Serene in his belief, he shakes off care and grief, his soul in endless calm, his faith a gracious balm. Time was when I'd have said, "You should repair your head; its valves should soon be ground, its spark plugs are unsound, its cylinders don't hit, its timing gear has quit. On some mechanic call, your head to overhaul." But, seated in my pew, I say, "It may be true; two hundred times or three I've said, 'This can not be,' when some strange theme was broached and skillfully approached. I've said, 'Your wires are crossed, your argument a frost, opposed to common sense—aroint, and get thee hence!'" Before so very long I found that I was wrong, and things which seemed absurd are now with patience heard. Today I would not cry that anything's a lie, I've seen so many dreams grow into useful schemes, so many projects proved that once my laughter moved. I would not dare contend that bats afflict my friend. And even if he's wrong, while yet his faith is strong he does in comfort bask—what more could mortal ask?

Germans Cut Unemployment In Last Year

More Than Two Millions Dropped From Rolls of Idle in 1933.

Berlin (U.P.).—The outstanding feature of the development of the German economic situation during 1933 was a drop in unemployment.

The number of the jobless reached its peak shortly after the Hitler cabinet assumed office, February 15, with 6,047 000. Since then the decrease has been steady until October, when unemployment became practically stationary with about 3,800,000.

This reduction of more than 2,000,000 was attained by governmental measures.

Large public funds were appropriated to provide employment; landowners and industrialists were persuaded to engage additional workers to relieve the labor market.

Road Building Stressed.

The public works consisted mainly in road-building and in improving the soil. Public means also were provided for a large scheme of house repairs.

The hiring of additional workers was encouraged by subsidies to employers enlarging their staff.

Public works were carried out by "labor squads" receiving pay not very much above the regular unemployment dole. Jobless, however, often were glad to join the squads even at such terms, in order to secure at least a regular occupation.

Trade Trend Improves.

Significant as the reduction of unemployment is, it can not be regarded as indicating an improvement in all German economic life.

This may be explained if it is considered that the improvement of the labor market was not caused by the natural revival of prosperity but mostly by "artificial" measures.

These measures assured that the "seasonal" drop in unemployment, regularly experienced in the summer months, was more marked last summer than before, and that the "seasonal" increase of unemployment expected in the fall did not take place.

Radio Waves and Ripples

IT made us feel a lot better to learn that William Adams, who lost his job with March of Time because people just wouldn't believe he wasn't President Roosevelt, is working as the scarecrow in the "Wizard of Oz."

Though Aunt Sadie is entirely to blame for the small part we played in getting Adams fired, we admit we did call the White House one Friday night and ask Mr. McIntyre if he was perfectly sure the President wasn't broadcasting. We did it in the vain hope that Aunt Sadie would stop talking and let us finish that serial in the Saturday Evening Post.

It was the same every Friday night. Aunt Sadie would listen to March of Time and then spend the rest of the evening offering to bet "dollars to doughnuts" that it was Mr. Roosevelt and that the March of Time people said it was Mr. Adams just to fool her.

We stood it as long as we could, then we called the White House. The worst part of it is, Mr. McIntyre took our name, which is probably on file over there now under "Broadcasting, Adams."

Aunt Sadie so often reminds us of Uncle Lemuel and his theory about Brussel sprouts. Uncle Lemuel was so insistent about Brussel sprouts being little undernourished cabbages that we had to give up having them for dinner.

Once-Overs

By H. I. Phillips.

IMPRESSION OF AN EXAMINATION OF A MONETARY EXPERT.

Q.—Will you tell the committee, professor, just what the cutting of the gold content will accomplish?

A.—It will tend to raise prices. Let me cite an example: A has six apples, B has a dozen eggs and C never took a drink in his life. The English pound is $4.76. Our own dollar, let us assume, is worth 60 cents avoirdupois. We must increase our export trade. And as a friend of mine said last week, America for Americans.

Q.—True. But let us assume the dollar falls to 55 cents this week and 50 cents two weeks from now. Who wins?

A.—In that case we pool it.

Q.—Pool what?

A.—Our fan mail.

Q.—I don't quite follow you. Let me put my question in another way. With the value of the dollar being fixed from time to time, will there not be great uncertainty?

A.—No, because we will still have the sliding scale. And then, too, the price of commodities will have a tendency to go forward as in the Venezuela claims case, the Boxer rebellion and the Pasuli affair. I think 18 per cent a fair estimate.

Q.—But isn't there the danger it will lead to printing press money, professor?

A.—I think not. It will enable the seller to get more for what he sells and pay larger salaries to those who help him make what he sells to those who buy, but do not have any hand in helping him make what he sells.

Q.—You mean under the Sells-Forepaugh agreement?

A.—Yes. These higher salaries will not be worth as much as the salaries were worth when they were lower. In other words, the lower salaries will really be higher than the higher salaries if we go back that far. But we have the precedent of the Einstein case.

Q.—The Einstein case?

A.—Yes. That was the grave crisis in our history when there were breadlines in all cities. The yellow fever germ had not been mastered and there were grave fears Grant's lines would not hold. But the storm stopped on the fifth day and traffic was normal in no time. Not a dollar was lost to an investor.

Q.—But that was back in the days before we had electricity, professor.

A.—I admit that, but you can't make hard and fast rules about anything. Let the courts test its constitutionality.

* * * *

Q.—As a matter of fact, isn't there a chance wages may go lower?

A.—No, sir. The Chinese are not a good example. And you must realize that in India the population is denser and largely vegetarian.

* * * *

Q.—Professor, isn't it a fact that the French revolution followed the debasing of the currency?

A.—In a measure, but our climate is different. After all, if they don't like it here let them go back where they came from.

Q.—I concede as much. But what about the staggering debt? What will America do about that?

A.—That will take care of itself if we avoid crowds, do not sneeze in public and breathe through our noses.

Music of Local Men Is Offered By Symphony

Works of Potter and Spier on Constitution Hall Program Tomorrow.

Music by two Washington composers, Edward C. Potter and LaSalle Spier, will be played by the National Symphony Orchestra at the "popular" concert tomorrow at 4 o'clock in Constitution Hall, under direction of Hans Kindler.

In fact, the program will be four-fifths American in origin. The soloist of the day, John Powell, the Virginian composer and piano virtuoso, will be heard in his own "Rhapsodie Negre," and the opening number of the concert is from the pen of Templeton Strong, an American composer now residing in Switzerland. Only one work is of European provenance—Chaikovski's symphonic poem, "Francesca da Rimini."

Edward C. Potter is a metallurgical engineer by profession. Having retired from the business of steel manufacture, he resides in this city at 2745 Brandywine street. Music always had interested him, and when leisure gave him the opportunity he took up composition as a hobby. While many of his songs have been frequently used in recitals, Sunday's concert will mark his first appearance as an orchestral composer.

From his suite, "Montana Sketches," two numbers will be played: "The Forest" and "Wind Over the Prairie.' The suite was written on his ranch in Montana, and the music is frankly descriptive.

LaSalle Spier is a professional musician well known in this city. His "Impressions of the Bowery," to be heard tomorrow, was composed in 1918 while he was a teacher of piano at the Music School Settlement in New York. The piece was originally conceived for two pianos, and was later scored for full orchestra.

The program for tomorrow's concert is as follows:

"Chorale on a Theme by Hassler" ..... Strong
"Montana Sketches" ..... Potter
"The Forest"
"Wind Over the Prairie"
"Rhapsodie Negre" for piano and orchestra ..... Powell
John Powell, soloist.
"Impressions of the Bowery"..Spier
Symphonic Poem, "Francesca da Rimini" ..... Chaikovski
